

PHILLIES TAKE THE 4TH GAME

McGrawites Finally Solve Bender, But too Late to Win; Barry Gets Single and Two Doubles; Oldring Cluists Useless Triple.

Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—Limping along from "way behind," the sadly crippled New York Giants made the fourth game of the world's series close yesterday afternoon—but that's all—they just made it close. The final score was 6 to 5 in favor of the smashing combination of brain and brawn they call the Philadelphia Athletics, and the Giants had to toil painfully up from a six-run disadvantage to draw the finish that fine.

A fly that poor Fred Snodgrass could not quite reach, because injury had stripped him of his speed; a foul that Fred Merkle, practically lame, could not handle—these were incidents in the third triumph of the mighty Mackmen in the series that is now drawing to a close; incidents that were responsible for the one run that the slugging Philadelphians needed to tide them over in the time of a bitter onslaught of the Giants against Albert Bender, the veteran Indian.

The years he has put behind him in the big league were a heavy load upon the shoulders of the lean Chippewa as he faced the charge of the big town boys in those final innings, and even while he fought them with craft it was apparent that he was going and going fast. Another inning—but this is not the story of the might-have-beens. He won, and that is the baseball answer.

COOMBS GIVES OUT REAL DOPE

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 11.—As a prophet "Jawn" Coombs is not without honor in his own country. When the "Iron man" opined yesterday that Chief Bender and Al Demaree would face each other yesterday at Shibe park with the result that the Mack steam roller would again flatten out the Giants, there may have been fans who involuntarily exclaimed, "Quit your kiddin'." As Jack, still stretched upon a cot at the University hospital, followed every move of yesterday's game, while Mrs. Ira Thomas phoned them to him from Shibe park, a smile illuminated his face.

"Nothing to it now," he remarked in a happy tone. "We have nothing to fear now." Coombs' nurse has given him a white broom with a miniature white elephant attached to the handle. Jack is confident it will be a true talisman for a clean sweep in the remaining games.

Going to extremes in all things rampant, the Sporting Club crushed the White Sox into humiliating defeat yesterday in the third game for the city championship at the west side park. The score was 8 to 0. It was more than a victory; it was a landslide.

Jim Scott, the sturdy curve ball artist of the south side team, was on the slab, and apparently in the best of form, but he took the worst licking of the season when in the sixth and seventh rounds the Cubs went into tantrums of athletic prowess and whaled the ball all over the lot.

On the slab for the Trojan army was Bert Humphries, the meekest man in the national game, so far as is known. Nearly 18,000 persons were gathered together for the afternoon of sport and it looked as if Mr. Humphries was the only one who didn't experience a thrill.

Humphries stood out on the rubber and heaved deadly curves and fast balls over the plate with his deceptive side arm delivery, and did it with the same grim steadfastness that he would shovel coal. In the intervals of retiring his victims, Bert would mop his perspiring brow and stretch his aching limbs, and one got the impression that to him shoveling coal would be more interesting than hurling a baseball for the delight of enraptured thousands.

In the entire game the Sox got only four base hits off the slab arm. One was a clean smash inside of first base for a double. The other three were on the scratch order. Not a south sider got beyond second base, and six of them fanned.

Jim Scott hurled with the accuracy and precision of a machine for the first five innings. It looked as if the throng of rooters was to be treated to a duel between pitchers, and the team that could get the lucky break and score one run would be victor in the battle. But in the fifth inning two or three balls that were hit off Scott foretold of danger.

He wavered a bit in control, also, hitting Humphries with a pitched ball, when there were two out and a

HAMMOND FIGHTER GIVES A GREAT EXHIBITION

Giving a fast and wonderful exhibition of cleverness and self-defense, Tommy Tague, the Hammond lightweight, distinguished himself before the eyes of a large gathering of Lake county fans last night by defeating Joe Homeland of Chicago by a big margin at the Pioneer Athletic clubroom at Gary.

From the moment the men shook hands to the last tap of the gong in the tenth round, Tommy went to the front, and there was not a round during the contest that he did not win or draw.

Homeland was so thoroughly battered at the end that not a protesting voice could be heard from his many Chicago followers when the referee raised Tague's arm and proclaimed him the winner. Tommy administered three wallops to every one his competitor managed to put over. As early as the fourth round the right hand jabs of Tommy had its effect on Homeland's face and he was bleeding from the nose and mouth and had a badly discolored eye.

Tague's exhibition of last night demonstrates the fact that he has improved greatly since his recent battle. The fact that Homeland has fought Marty McCue gives Tommy great credit and will help him in securing future bouts.

Shortly before the preliminaries the clubroom was well filled and the behavior of the crowd was praised by Chief of Police Martin. Not a disturbance marked the events of the evening.

In the preliminaries Art Stewart of Hammond used Bobby Gray, the Gary tar baby, for a punching bag for four rounds, and the negro, eager to get out of the affray, made a claim of disloosening his thumb. Kid Fields had Young Bentley in a bad way in the third round and he quit.

FREAK BETS MADE ON NELSON FIGHT

Milwaukee Fans Show Much Interest in Monday's Clash.

There is nothing strange in the fact that many freak bets are made on baseball games, but it isn't usual for fans to make such wagers on a boxing match. The Nelson-Wolgaist match, booked for Milwaukee Monday night, is a battle which carries with it various wagers, these being prominent in the city where the match is to be staged. Wagers are being made as follows: That if a knockout ends the battle Nelson will be the winner; first blood will be brought from Nelson; that Wolgaist will be doing the backing up, with Nelson forcing the fighting; that the last five rounds will be in Nelson's favor; that Nelson will score the first knockdown; that the fight won't end before the sixth round.

The odds vary on these wagers from even money to 5 to 1. Matchmaker Ben Stelmel sends word that sentiment is playing a big part in this match, and that fans who rarely frequent battles will be at the ringside to see the two ex-champions clash. Posters that adorn the billboards when each was champion are being used for the mill, with the wording across the top, "They meet again."

Nelson will wind up his work tomorrow. He is back at Nate Lewis' gym. Arrangements have been made to carry a dinner on the special train and meals will be served going and coming. The train will leave the Northwestern depot at 6:30.

WESTERN OPEN GOLF LIST COMPLETED NOW

Entries for the annual open championship of the Western Golf association, to be played Thursday and Friday, at the Memphis Country club, closed this morning, when a considerable addition to the list is expected.

Among the prominent players who sent in their names yesterday were Fred McLeod of the Columbia Golf and Country club of Maryland, national champion in 1908; Michael J. Brady of Boston, who tied for first place in the national open championship at the Chicago Golf club in 1911; Robert Simpson of the Kenosha Country club, western champion in 1907 and 1911; J. B. Simpson of the Blue Mound Country club of Milwaukee; John A. Croke of the Calumet Country club, Chicago; J. J. Roseman of the Des Moines Golf and Country club, and Tom Hughes of the Wichita Country club of Kansas.

Among the amateur players who will compete are E. E. Daley and Sheffield Clark of Nashville; J. P. Edgington, southern champion in 1909; W. A. Hood, F. D. Gardner and M. T. Condon of Memphis; A. A. Jonas, P. M. Davis and H. S. Hadfield of Blue Mound, Milwaukee.

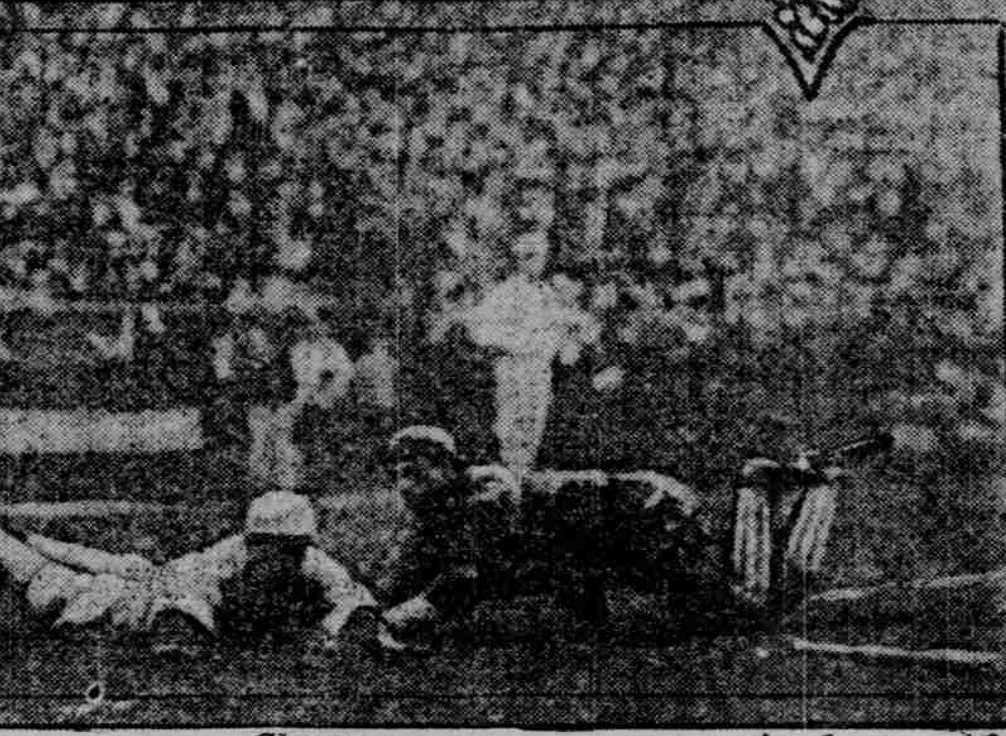

Events are scheduled on a number of the local golf courses for this afternoon. The Edgewater club will hold its Harvest Home day and a similar program is scheduled at Hinsdale.

FORMER YALE STAR MAY LOSE SIGHT

Portland, Conn., Oct. 11.—Perry T. W. Hale, a former Yale all-American full back, may lose his eyesight as the result of an explosion last night. He was experimenting with a "burglar alarm" he had devised, when crossed wires caused an explosion, filling his face with small pieces of copper wire. His brother, Kelly Hale, and Harry Dagnall also were cut and bruised by the explosion. Hale was graduated from Yale in 1900.

HOPPE TO DEFEND TITLE ON NOV. 17

William F. Hoppe, world's champion at 18.2 and 18.1, has accepted the challenge of Calvin Demarest of Chicago to play for the former title, and has named November 17 as the date. The match will be played in the ball room of the Hotel Astor, New York. Hoppe won the championship tournament last November, and subsequently defended his title by defeating George Sutton of Chicago and Koji Yamada of Japan.
